Ask the Psychiatrist

Last night, March 8th, the Student Health & Wellness Personal Counseling Program, in collaboration with the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI), once again hosted an Ask the Psychiatrist open forum Q&A session, for students and the community.

- Dr. Neil Hartman MD PhD, who has been donating his time to the program for the last four months, was the resident psychiatrist answering questions for the evening.
- The event was well attended, and addressed various issues related to caring for children with Schizophrenia, mental illness and student homelessness, substance abuse, depression and medical treatment options for mental illness.
- The program has been offering these sessions to the community for 8 years now, and has recently increased session offerings to once a month, since COVID.

Student Health and Wellness Center

Student Health & Wellness Center

The Student Health and Wellness Center is set to expand service to 24/7!

- We now have ProtoCall available to our students.
- After hours, weekends, and holidays, callers to SHWC will be directed to a live person to help them with their needs.
- Crisis and intervention services are included in the service, as well as referrals.
- Live March 14th!

Currently at the Art Gallery

Deborah Aschheim's The Never Facebook Drawings and the Center for Civic Engagement's PLACE Project drawings are on view through March 24th.

- The exhibition features Aschheim's wonderful pen and ink drawings from several bodies of work. The Never Facebook Drawings are portraits of many of the people the artist has met at voter drives, mutual aid actions, rallies, protests, vigils, and memorials.
- The PLACE Project, co-led by Patty Robinson and Jessica Edmonds, brought together the Center for Civic Engagement, the City of Santa Clarita, Bridge to Home (BTH), and the Santa Clarita Senior Center, along with COC students to examine issues of housing insecurity and other pressing equity.
